Media Services

The tournament media room at the Mabee Center is located adjacent to the working media area at the west end of the building. Media row is located on floor level opposite the scorer's table and team benches. Assigned seats will be provided on media row for media representatives covering each individual game. Several credit card telephones and a credit card facsimile machine are for media use in the working media area.

Statistical Services

Statistics on all tournament games will include play-by-play, halftime box, final box and coaches' quotes. Statistics will be delivered to media row and complete statistical sets will be available following each game. Season and tournament statistical updates for every team, as well as overall tournament statistical leaders, will be provided following each round. Press books, game statistics and institutional media guides will be available in the media area.

Interviews

For games through the second round, there will be no formalized postgame interview sessions at the arena. After these games, the head coach from each team will answer media questions outside the respective team's locker room following a brief "cooling off" period. Media operations personnel and institutional sports information directors will assist in arranging any special interviews with players and coaches. Beginning with the quarterfinal round, formalized post-game interviews will be held in the interview room (east side of arena).

This press book was written, compiled and edited by Jim Beeman, Lynn McCoy and Dave Wester of the NAIA Department of Sports Information. Special thanks to Kevin Dee and Robert Rhoads, NAIA Division of Championships, for statistical support. Printing done by Kinko's, 1324 E. 71st St., Tulsa, Oklahoma 74136.

About the Tournament...

History

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Men's Basketball National Championship is rich in tradition. It is the oldest and largest intercollegiate basketball tournament in the world. The NAIA emanated from the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball (NAIB) and began in 1937 as an eight-team college invitational tournament in Kansas City, Missouri. It was intended to fill the void created when the national Amateur Athletic Union tournament moved from Kansas City to Denver, Colorado. By 1939, the event had expanded to the present-day 32-team format. Except for in 1944, when wartime travel restrictions cancelled the tournament, and in 1945, when those same limitations cut the field to 16 teams, 32 of the nation's best small colleges have composed the tournament field annually. In 1992, NAIA Men's Basketball split into two divisions, with the Division I tournament continuing in Kansas City. In 1994, the tournament moved to Tulsa, Oklahoma. This is the fourth year that the NAIA Division I Men's Basketball National Championship has taken place at the Mabee Center.

Qualification

The NAIA lays claim to having the largest intercollegiate championship basketball event because the 32 teams competing in Tulsa this week comprise the final round of a tournament that actually began with some 155 schools.

A total of 22 conferences and sections conducted Division I men's basketball tournaments in 1997. Each tournament champion earned an automatic berth into this year's national tournament.

The following 14 affiliated conferences qualified champions directly to the national tournament:

American Midwest Conference
Big State Conference
Chicagoland Collegiate Athletic Conference
Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference
Georgia Athletic Conference
Golden State Athletic Conference
Gulf Coast Athletic Conference

Heart of Texas Conference
Keystone-Empire Collegiate Conference
Mid-South Conference
Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference
Pacific Northwest Athletic Conference
Sooner Athletic Conference
TranSouth Athletic Conference

* denotes conference was allotted two berths to the national championship due to size

The following six independent sections also qualified champions directly:

Pacific Northwest
Far West
Southwest

Great Lakes
Mid-South
Southeast

With 22 automatic qualifiers in place, this left ten at-large berths in the national tournament. These spots were available to top teams that did not gain an automatic berth through affiliated conference/section qualification procedures. On the following pages are the 32 qualifiers--automatic and at-large--in the 1997 NAIA Division I Men's Basketball National Championship.
